WRECKED!

Dastardly Work of Fiends on the New York Central Road.A FAST TRAIN GOES INTO A DEATH TRAP WITH FA-TAL RESULTS. THE WRECKERS ARE
CAUGHT.Rev. Frank Hyatt Smith.
A PLEA OF INSANITY.

ROME, N. Y., Nov. 19.—A most dastardly crime was committed at 4.30 o'clock this morning two miles west of this city by wrecking the limited fast mail No. 6, east-bound on the New York central railroad. It was the deliberate act of fiends. As a result Engineer Nathan Hager was killed as were also two unknown men. Mail Clerk Murphy was cut about the head and another employee lost a leg. Valuable mail is destroyed and an immense amount of property destroyed.

The wreckers broke open the company's tool-house near where the wreck occurred and obtained a wrench and crowbar. With these the spikes and fish-plates from two opposite rails on the splinter track had been removed.

The fast train composed of four mail and three sleepers came along running at the rate of about forty miles an hour. The locomotive left the track, bounded over the ties and fell sideways into a ditch twelve feet deep on the south side of the track.

The two foremost mail cars shot by the engine, the first landing about seventy-five feet from the point where the engine left the track. The second and third mail cars came together in "v" shape. Fourth mail car was toppled away over. The first two sleepers were partly turned over and the last remained on the tracks. There were about fifty passengers in the three sleepers and not one of them was hurt. Several other trainmen in addition to those mentioned received more or less serious injuries.

The officials of the road declare that every effort known to detective work will be made to detect the wreckers.

Wreckers Caught.

[LATER.]
ROME, N. Y., Nov. 19.—The police have arrested three young men for wrecking the fast mail train. They are J. Watson Hildreth of New York, Fred Bristol and Herbert Plato of Rome. Hildreth has made confession implicating the other two and one Theodore Hubbard who is not yet apprehended. Their object was robbery. The police found a hat with Hildreth's name in it in some bushes near the wreck and upon confronting him with it, he weakened and confessed.

REV. F. HYATT SMITH INSANE.

The Cambridge Minister Will Not Come to Trial.

[Special Dispatch to the Transcript.]
BOSTON, Nov. 19.—The case against Rev. Frank Hyatt Smith of Cambridge, indicted for sending scurrilous postal cards through the mails, has taken a new turn. The fact leaked out today that last Thursday, Smith's counsel, Col. Hopkins, filed a motion with the clerk of the United States circuit court that Rev. Smith is mentally deranged and ought not to be tried for the offense with which he is charged. Accompanying the motion is an affidavit by Dr. E. H. Stevens of Cambridge, who for the past five years has been the family physician of Mr. Smith. Dr. Stevens declares he has been intimately associated with Mr. Smith as a friend, has acquired extensive knowledge regarding him and his family, and is of the opinion that the case will never come to trial, and that Mr. Smith will finally be declared insane.

HELD UP.

Express Robbers Working in the West Again.

[Special Dispatch to the Transcript.]
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 19.—An express train on the Great Northern railroad was held up by two armed robbers eight miles from St. Cloud last night. The robbers covered the fireman and engineer with rifles and compelled the engineer to get off and uncouple the express car. There were two express cars, but the engineer uncoupled only the first one, the express messenger being in the second car. The engineer was compelled to run the express car toward St. Cloud, but the robbers were unable to open the safe and made their escape without getting any booty.

BROOKLYN BRIDGE ACCIDENT.

A Dense Fog Causes the Wreck of Two Trains.

[Special Dispatch to the Transcript.]
NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—A dense fog settled over the city early this morning, greatly delaying traffic in the city and harbor. A serious accident occurred on Brooklyn bridge about 8 o'clock, when one train crashed into the rear of another train that had been forced to stop. Several cars were telescoped. A brakeman and several passengers were severely hurt. The brakeman had both legs cut off and cannot recover. The accident caused the stoppage of traffic on the bridge.

FATAL FIRE IN NEW YORK.

A Clinton Street Fire Trap Burns This Forenoon.

[Special Dispatch to the Transcript.]
NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—A building at 98 Clinton street burned this forenoon. Two men employed in a sweat shop on the top floor had their escape cut off by flames. One of them jumped from the fifth floor to the street and will probably die from his injuries. The other jumped two stories to a roof near by and was slightly hurt. When the flames were extinguished the firemen found the body of a man on the top floor. They think there may be one or two more.

LATEST CUBAN NEWS.

[Special Dispatch to the Transcript.]

MADRID, Nov. 19.—Premier Del Castillo makes emphatic denial of the report that negotiations looking to the establishing of peace in Cuba are in progress or are contemplated. The premier says that Campos is making preparations for a decisive coup against the insurgent guard of Gomez and Maceo. It is reported here that the rear guard of Gomez's army has been defeated and dispersed in Santa Clara.

EBEN D. JORDAN'S WILL.

[Special Dispatch to the Transcript.]
BOSTON, Nov. 19.—The will of Eben D. Jordan, Boston's prominent merchant, was filed for probate today. It contains no public bequests. Small amounts are left to servants.

[Special Dispatch to the Transcript.]
LONDON, Nov. 19.—The stock exchange is weak everywhere today, owing to anxiety regarding the political situation. All Europe is feverish.

GOLD SHIPMENTS TOMORROW.

[Special Dispatch to the Transcript.]
NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The total engagement of gold for shipment to Europe tomorrow is $1,750,000.

SENATOR HOAR POORLY.

[Special Dispatch to the Transcript.]
WORCESTER, Nov. 19.—Owing to poor condition of his health Senator George F. Hoar has cancelled all his engagements to deliver addresses in the immediate future.

FINANCIAL.

[Special Dispatch to the Transcript.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—London market was lower on prospective disturbance. Foreign houses had heavy selling orders and as these sales will lead to further gold exports it had the effect of marking down the prices at the opening, particularly in Louisville & Nashville. Traders and certain bearish operators who thought it would be a good opportunity to test the strength of the market that is booming Chicago, Burlington & Quincy proceeded to feel their way by putting out a few thoughtless shares of that stock, but it was quickly picked up without any weakness shown in the stock.

The foreign exchange market is firm on a light offering of Commercial bills. A million and a quarter gold goes out tomorrow and it is expected that another million will go Thursday.

The trunk line presidents are in session but nothing has been learned as to their actions.

Shet Family and Himself.
MELBOURNE, Nov. 19.—Manager Short of the Commercial bank at Sale, Victoria, shot his wife and two children and then killed himself with his revolver. The two children are dead, and the condition of his wife is critical. It is believed that his mind became unbalanced.

ABOUT CITY OFFICERS.

A Meeting Held at the City Hall Last Night.

A meeting attended by about thirty representative citizens was held at the city hall to devise some method of getting before the public a ticket for the officers to be filled at the city election. There seems to be a general agreement that the best men for the various positions should be selected regardless of all party feeling, and the business of the meeting was to talk over the situation and decide, if possible, upon a course of action. W. G. Cady was made permanent chairman and H. W. Clark clerk.
After some discussion it was decided to appoint a committee of seven, composed of one from each ward, to select a committee of three from each ward, making a general committee of twenty-one. This committee will select from the various wards the names of men believed to be suitable for the offices to be filled and will then report to a larger meeting. More names than ought to fill the offices will be submitted, that there may be room for choice in the matter, as it is not the purpose or wish of those in this movement to make up a ticket, but to bring the work before the public in a way that will enable the voters to act intelligently and in concert.
The committee of seven will report at an adjourned meeting to be held at the city hall this evening at 7.30 o'clock, and the committee of twenty-one will begin work at once. This committee will probably be ready to report by Thursday or Friday night, when a mass meeting may be held at Old Fellows' hall, that all interested may get a clear idea of what is being done. Due notice will be given in each ward of the meeting to be held on Friday.

Before adjournment H. W. Clark resigned as clerk because he will not be in town the latter part of the week, and Edwin Bernard was chosen in his place.

HOW IT WAS RECEIVED.

Mr. Houghton's Decision Brings Great Satisfaction to the Town.

It is a rare thing, if not quite unprecedented, for the candidacy of any man, for any office, to be accepted as that of A. C. Houghton for the majority of North Adams. From the time it was announced yesterday afternoon that he had consented to take the nomination, until the last vote was cast at night, Mr. Houghton's decision was the one topic of conversation on the streets and in every business place in town, and the satisfaction expressed was remarkable for its heartiness and universality. Without a single dissenting voice it was agreed that Mr. Houghton's candidacy for the office of mayor was pre-eminently the proper and fitting thing, and it was heartily endorsed by all classes wholly regardless of party preferences.

Ever since the charter was adopted there has been a feeling that Mr. Houghton should be at the helm when the time should come for it to go into effect, because of his interest in the charter and the change from town to city government, and because of his large public spirit and remarkable judgment and executive ability. No one has ever maintained that he was the only man capable of filling this important post acceptably, for which North Adams is especially favored with men qualified for any office within her gift, and who possess the full confidence of their townsmen, but the very men who, with Mr. Houghton, have been mentioned for the office, have been foremost in insisting that he should serve the city of North Adams as its first mayor. It was feared that his large and exacting business interests would not admit of this, and the fear was well grounded, for he consented to take the nomination with the greatest reluctance and only after the utmost pressure had been brought to bear.
The way in which the announcement was received ought to bring some satisfaction to Mr. Houghton. Such cordial and universal endorsement is rarely accorded to any candidate, and when this comes from those who speak from personal knowledge it certainly is a compliment of no small degree. If there are any dissenters they were not heard from yesterday afternoon and last evening. With one voice the town welcomed the decision and on every hand were evidences of relief because a most important question had been settled and settled right.

RESULT OF DESPONDENCY.

Thomas Bunting Attempts to Take His Life by Shooting.

An evident attempt at suicide took place on Parker's hill between Brooklyn and Vazee streets at 11 o'clock today. Thomas Bunting of 29 Brooklyn street was seen walking back and forth holding his hands to his head. He had received a wound from a thirty-two calibre revolver on the right side of the head just back of the eye. The police were notified and Officer Thrall went to the scene accompanied by Dr. Dewey. The family would not give any account of the occurrence, insisting his injuries had been received from his falling on a rock in the field.
Mr. Bunting had been ill for several weeks and was in a very despondent mood when he left home this morning for a stroll. The bullet struck his skull and glanced, and is now lodged, it is believed, in the back of his throat. He will probably lose the sight of his right eye.

Closed by Attachment.

The store of James O'Brien, merchant tailor, was closed Saturday by attachment in favor of Allen & Co. of Boston. The trouble arose from the failure of one of Mr. O'Brien's large creditors in New York and will probably be only temporary. While the store is closed, Mr. O'Brien's workshop, entrance on Centre street, is still open.

Rev. G. W. Brown was out this morning for the first time in a week, having been confined to his home with a slight illness.

Olney's Eulogy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Secretary of State Olney presided at a meeting of the bar of the United States supreme court yesterday, at which resolutions were adopted of the high esteem of the bar for the late Associate Justice Howell E. Jackson of Tennessee, and their sympathy with his bereaved family. Secretary Olney paid a sincere tribute to the late justice, laying stress upon the fact, that he had led a singularly pure and upright life.

BAND FAIR CLOSURE.

Large Crowd Present to Witness the Drawing of Prizes.

THE NAMES OF THOSE WHO WON.

It Was a Very Successful Fair. The Receipts Will Exceed Those of Last Year. The Canvassers Did Well. The Band Well Satisfied.

Clapp's band fair closed last evening after a very successful run of ten nights. The hall was crowded and the books on the various articles were everywhere up to the time for calling them in.
The fair this year has been well patronized and it is expected the proceeds will exceed those of last year's fair. The members of the band did everything to make it pleasant for those who attended and their efforts were rewarded. The drawing of the articles canvassed for by the young ladies with the books occupied the attention of the band members after 9 o'clock and by 10.30 o'clock the results were announced. The names of the lucky ones and the prizes and numbers which drew the same are given below:
Length of the rope from which was suspended the pickle cator, twenty-seven feet; won by David Jondrow, who guessed twenty-seven feet and one inch. The other prizes were awarded as follows: Parlor suit, 191, Joseph Murray, Cliff street; white onyx clock, 14, Patrick Bordenale, Main street; box of cigars, 29, John Sullivan, Meadow street; water set, seeds in pumpkin 313, James Rooney who guessed 315; ton of coal, 73, Miss Nora Mead; picture throw, 40, Horace Furney; barrel of flour, 51, P. J. Malone; suit of clothes, 31, George Heister; lady's hat, 25, Miss Maad Brunnell; bazar lamp, 63, Mrs. T. Q. Flynn; case of wine, 27, James Kelley; dinner set, 57, Miss Eva Darling; oil painting, 5, Fred Schuster; sofa pillow, 31, Edward Billeau; silk umbrella, 96, Miss Lizzie Stone; small oil painting and easel, 63, Frank Bordenale; box of cigars, 49, Miss Lizzie Henderson; $50 in gold, 367, George Taylor.
The gold watch given to the lady who brought in the largest amount of money on the books, exclusive of the diamond ring contest books, went to Miss Matilda Murray of Cliff street, $17.50. Miss Della Murray had solicited $17.40 and Miss Peck of Arnold place $17.20, making the contest a close one.

The diamond ring contests were entered into with much zeal and from these sources a good amount was obtained. The diamond ring in the ladies' contest was won by Miss Wessels, who turned in $141. Miss Burns, her rival, secured $76.70. The diamond ring contest between the wine clerks was won by Timothy Scully, who collected $291.88. Thomas McConnell had raised $87.70 and Louis Bullett $35.
The sale of season tickets this year was much larger than last year. The receipts of the ticket office, aside from the season tickets, were $227.72.

UNANSWERABLE ARGUMENT.

Abstract of Rev. Mr. Tenney's Sunday Morning Sermon.

At the Congregational church Sunday morning Rev. W. L. Tenney preached an able and interesting sermon on "A Transformed Life the Unanswerable Argument," an abstract of which follows.

"And seeing the man which was healed standing with them, they could say nothing against it." Acts 4:14.

The Jewish leaders could readily have answered any argument which Peter and John could have drawn, either from the Old Testament scriptures or from reason, as to the transforming influence of Jesus Christ. But in all the Sadducean and Pharisaic army, there is no weapon which can parry the force of the living argument upon which their eyes rest when they listen to the answer made them by the Apostles.
The priests are weak where Peter and John are strong and their silence is the acknowledgement of the fact. They lack not a certain religious experience. They are zealous in maintaining the faith. They are examples to all in the correct observance of the ceremonial of religion. Yet they know not of the power of a present God, through whom the lame men by the Gate Beautiful may be healed. The rude Galileans, children in their religious experience, knowing but little of the correct observance of the ceremonial of religion, are strong in their faith in a present God, who now hears them and shows his loving character through them.
Into these two groups the world is divided today. The question which concerns men more than any other is, "Where is God?" Their ingrossment in business and in pleasure is only apparent. If the power of the loving God could be manifested to the world today, men would drop all else and fly to him. Go where we will, we find the name of Jesus repeated with reverence; for Jesus showed to men the Father. Through all the doubts, the misinterpretations, the persecutions of the centuries, the light divine manifested in Jesus, still shines upon the world and adds intensity to its yearning.
But a manifestation of God made eighteen centuries ago can never satisfy the questionings of the present.

BANK'S ANNUAL MEETING.

The Officers for the Ensuing Year. Increase of Business.

The annual meeting of the Berkshire co-operative bank was held last night and these are the officers for the ensuing year: President George H. Keam; vice-president, Pythagoras Boyd; secretary and treasurer, Charles W. Ford; directors, R. E. Schouler, R. H. Sykes, F. J. Barber, G. A. Hastings, W. H. Pritchard, C. T. Phelps, M. R. Ford, F. N. Blake, C. E. Whitney, F. L. Tilton, W. C. Ellis, A. N. Smith, James Fenton, W. F. Darby; auditors, T. W. Sykes, Alex. Craswell, J. L. Temple; board of investment, W. C. Ellis, R. E. Schouler, M. R. Ford. The report of the bank shows that for the past year there has been a net gain in membership of seventy-four; in shares, 562, and in amount, $20,193.38. This is considered a very fine showing. The bank has been very successful. Series eleven is now on sale.

George Bador.

George Bador died at his home this morning in Willow Dell from a long illness with consumption. He was twenty years of age and was the son of Louis Bador. He was a very well known and well liked young man. He is survived by his father and mother and a number of brothers and sisters. The funeral will occur Thursday morning from Notre Dame church.

At the annual meeting of the H. V. A. society today these officers were elected: President, W. B. Plunkett of Adams; vice-president, S. A. Hickox, South Williams; G. Z. Dean, Cheshire; secretary, G. F. Miller, North Adams; treasurer, M. R. Ford, North Adams.

these Christians make," his objections are silenced and the multitudes gladly listen to the message which is proclaimed by the men who can show by their side the witness to the truth of their words.

The world today needs to be shown what God is by means of the influence which he exerts upon the whole range of human life and activity. If Christ were again to appear in the form his disciples knew and loved so well, his influence would necessarily be limited to the few who could come under the direct influence of his personality. But if the presence and power of the Christ can be manifested whenever there is need, then will all this needy world come to know him and love him. The marvellous design of the Gate Beautiful of this age of which we are so proud, can never be appreciated by us, if we have been thoughtless of the needs of those who cannot enter into the gate with us and powerless to aid them if we would. If God cannot use us to make this world a better and happier place for all his children, he can use us for nothing.

Would we convince the rest of the world that our form of government is indeed a divine evolution, then it is our duty to show that because we are Christians, we are more attentive to the needs of our country, of our state and of our city. Try to be such a citizen, that if God should shut you out of every other form of activity, you would still transform every civic duty into a Christian privilege, and the ideal union of church and state will soon be realized.

Age must give place to self-accusation, if we engage in a business whose success depends upon the exercise of an unchristian spirit. The man who will fail in business rather than underpay his employees, misrepresents the quality of his goods, take an unfair advantage of another in the same business or envy a business competitor will today bear the same effective witness to the power of a Christian conviction that did the unflinching martyrs who courted a fiery death, rather than do reverence to the image of the Caesar.
The world today does not have enough faith in the church, because it thinks that it sees us carry into our church life much of the selfish spirit which is supposed to characterize the unbeliever. Let us ask ourselves not how much am I getting out of my church life, but how much am I putting into it. Let the obligation which rests upon you as a church member because "one is your master, even Christ," be at least as weighty as the obligation which rests upon you in the world to keep your word lest you lose your credit and financial standing. Try not to imprison the spirit of your religion in the dry bones of a dreary formalism but let this spirit manifest itself through the flesh and blood, the nerve and muscle of philanthropy and regard for God's unfortunate, then will the "unchurchly masses" request to the church as to the home of the soul.

As individuals, we will convince the world of our genuineness, as we cherish and develop a more stalwart faith. Let us learn to say with the poet-editor, regardless of our theories,

"If Jesus Christ be a man,
And only a man I say,
That of all mankind will I cleave to Him,
And to Him will I cleave away."

"If Jesus Christ be a God,
And the only God I swear,
I will follow Him through heaven and hell,
The earth, the sea, the air."

Thus shall we gain the victory over our lower selves. Approaching our Father more perfectly, we shall find that we see the Divine, in all the life about us. If it is life eternal to know God and Jesus Christ whom he hath sent, it is also life eternal to know God and some sin-stricken wayfarer whom we encounter who takes for us the place of Christ.

When the lame man by the Gate Beautiful leaped up and took his place by the side of Peter and John, it was as if Christ himself were again walking with them. He became to them a visible manifestation of their risen Lord.

So may the Christ be incarnate by your side in the form of some victory won, some unfortunate helped through Him. Then shall you be satisfied as you begin to awake into that likeness which is the glory not only of Heaven but of earth.

A PUBLIC RECEPTION.

Very Fine One Given Last Night by the Young Men's Christian Association.

DECORATIONS, MUSIC AND COLLATION.

Beautiful Chrysanthemums Given by Mrs. A. C. Houghton. The Rooms as Appeared to Visitors. The Reception a Success.

The Young Men's Christian association has just got nicely settled in its fine new rooms on the corner of Sumner and Morris streets, and that everybody could have a chance to see them a public reception was held last night. The many events drawing large audiences did not seem to detract from the number visiting the association and its home. From the very beginning to an hour so late as 11 o'clock interested citizens kept coming and going. Certainly there were 500 visitors.

The reception was very informal and much more doubtful on account of that. The rooms were in very nice trim. They had been decorated for the occasion by members of the Women's auxiliary and looked most inviting. There was a profusion of very fine chrysanthemums, smilax, palms and ferns, the gift of Mrs. A. C. Houghton. They decked every mantel and table and were the admiration of almost everyone who saw them. They were presented to the hospital after the event.

The rooms as a whole left a very fine impression on every visitor. The parlor is to the right as one enters and is very neatly furnished. The piano is there and it was there last night, the Saturday Evening Symphony Concert club, under the direction of Byron G. Briggs, discouraged very entertaining music. Adjoining it is the room known as the gaming room, but last night it was transformed into a most pleasant dining room. The table had an elegant bunch of chrysanthemums in its centre. Most of the flowers were of a rich yellow and with very good taste, the lamps for the table were chosen with shades of a tint to correspond. Opening from the dining room was the kitchen, a scene of much activity. At the end of the hall and near to the two rooms last mentioned is the General Secretary Davis' office, a room well fitted for its use. To the left on entering is the reading room and library. It is pleasantly furnished and has a good many volumes. There is room for many more, which generous people should note. Adjoining this room and on the same side of the hall is the auxiliary and the director's room. It is a quiet place, well suited for the purpose for which it is selected. Last night it served for something like a woman's cloak room and a look into it alone would have given an idea of the number of visitors. It was almost filled with garments. Up stairs on the second floor there was an entertainment in the rooms occupied by the Ivers & Pond Piano company. Archie Mason was pianist and had always an audience. It was a little high to reach the third floor, but a good number went up there and visited the room in which Miss Sarah F. Allen conducts her private kindergarten. This room received considerable attention because of the uniqueness of its furniture and the attractive way in which it is decorated to be pleasing to children. The house was visited from one end to the other, up and down, and the wonder was how a private dwelling could so finely fit for the association's home without any alteration whatever.

The reception was one of the pleasantest that has been held in town. Everyone was made at home by the friendly greetings and marked attention shown. All the rooms for the entire evening were filled with evidently very happy people, moving about making plenty of favorable criticism. Secretary Davis was everywhere making all content that they had come, and the auxiliary had prepared very delicate refreshments and served them daintily. They consisted principally of coffee, cake and ice cream. The coffee and cake were very good and the ice cream was from Livermore's which is a guarantee of its quality. No one went out without having partaken of these good things if often and earnest solicitation could make him eat. The social committee of the auxiliary deserves much praise for their efforts to make the reception a success and the exceptional way in which it accomplished its object. The officers and directors of the association and their wives, the president and vice presidents of the auxiliary constituted the reception committee and performed their duties grandly.

The officers of the association are as follows: President, George Hopkins; vice-president, George W. Chase; recording secretary, Arthur J. Davis; treasurer, W. W. Butler; directors, George Hopkins, A. E. Wright, C. E. Whitney, W. W. Butler, George M. Darby, George W. Chase, James Mitchell, E. S. Wilkinson, Thomas W. Sykes, W. H. Pritchard, E. L. Chase, C. W. Dennett, H. E. Wetherbee, J. M. Canedy and W. L. Potter. J. M. Canedy, of course, was not present. He is sought for his health.

The reception committee of the auxiliary are: Mrs. W. H. Clark, Mrs. E. B. Hamblin, Mrs. R. L. Chase, Mrs. George W. Chase, Mrs. George Hopkins, Mrs. Fred Hinkelbier, Mrs. T. E. Brigham, Mrs. R. Burdett, Mrs. J. Pierce, Mrs. M. B. Dibble, Miss Ida Blanchard, and Miss Katie Potter.

Mrs. A. A. Wills is president of the auxiliary and the vice presidents are Mrs. H. J. Millard, Mrs. George Hopkins, Mrs. Thomas Sykes, Mrs. George M. Darby acted last night on the reception committee in place of Mrs. F. D. Penney, who was unable to be present. Miss Mary DeWolf and Miss Maud McDonald occupied positions at the table and poured the delicious coffee.

The musical program was a fine one. Miss Nellie Mansfield gave a violin solo a minute by Hayden. The Symphony club gave Prayer and Rondo, Dor Preights. Howard Billings played as a violin solo the Cradle song by Hauser. The club played "Three Energetic Fiddlers," Charles Fowler. John Heywood sang two selections.

The "ladies' night" held by Berkshire council, Royal Arcanum, last night was largely attended and very enjoyable.

COL. BRACEWELL FOR PRESIDENT OF CITY COUNCIL.

Now that one of our most public-spirited men, one who is willing to sacrifice great personal interests to assume arduous public duties, has yielded to the demands of our people and consented to be a candidate for the mayoralty, it is not unreasonable for us to hope that his able and influential co-worker in the most worthy enterprises for our advancement as a community should also consent to make similar sacrifices for the public good.

Could Col. Bracewell be persuaded to accept a nomination for the city council it would be a fortunate thing indeed for our city. His name would undoubtedly be found on both the Republican and Democratic tickets and he would have a loyal and hearty support in every ward of the city and from all classes. We believe his nomination and election would be practically unanimous. His election by popular vote would undoubtedly mean that he would be the first president of our city council. Such an emphatic and flattering vote as he would be sure to receive would assure such an honor to him; such a benefit to our city government.

With men like Col. John Bracewell and A. C. Houghton at the head of the legislative and executive departments of our city respectively, men who have worked together so ably and untriflingly in the interest of our city charter, the normal school and other important local benefits and institutions, with such men in the pilot house and at the wheel there could be no question as to the brilliant and smooth launching and first year's cruise of the City of North Adams.

We know that Col. Bracewell felt he could not possibly accept a candidacy for mayor on account of his great business responsibilities, but now his own people have an appetite for sacrifices of this kind they demand this of him, that he consent to be a councilman.

The people of North Adams have a peculiarity of knowing what they want and of not being backward in demanding it. They want Col. Bracewell as president of the first city council.

THE FIRST MAYOR OF NORTH ADAMS.

[From Today's Springfield Republican.]

It is a very proper thing that the people of the soon-to-be second city of Berkshire (we mean in point of establishment, of course, for comparisons between North Adams and Pittsfield are to be indulged in at considerable risk) are ready to unite upon Albert C. Houghton as the first mayor under the charter. There has been no doubt that the people wanted this thing, but there has been considerable question whether Mr. Houghton, who is a very busy man, would consent to let them have it. But he has finally agreed to be a candidate for mayor, and this means that both parties will endorse him, and that under his oversight the city charter which he did so much to shape will be launched. This is a desirable and fortunate thing. It is a somewhat open secret that Mr. Houghton and other leading citizens were extremely anxious that North Adams should secure for herself as near a model city charter as could be drawn. To this end the services of Seth Low, Nathan Matthews, Jr., and William E. Russell were directly enlisted by Mr. Houghton. He is now to guide the practical experiment.

It is the good fortune of North Adams to possess a group of influential citizens whose public spirit is conspicuous, and of these men Mr. Houghton is the modest leader. He is not only a great captain of industry, and so conspicuously helpful on the material side, but he is the advocate and friend of the forces and institutions that make for better citizenship and good government. The men of a small place, if they stand together at all, work with greater unity and force than the influential men of a larger city, who too often divide and dissipate their influence. The uplifting which has come to North Adams of recent years has been most marked, and for this progress in all directions credit is due to the score of good citizens who have acted with a serious purpose to bring it about. We imagine that all these men are ready to allow unqualified credit to Mr. Houghton for the impulse he has given to North Adams.

Surely no community ever had a more loyal citizen than Mr. Houghton has been. In the conduct of the Arnold print works he has shown masterly qualities, and his business ability in all directions is greatly relied upon. His public spirit falls on no side. To him in large measure northern Berkshire owes its new normal school, which will be built within the appropriation—a record worth speaking of and one which Mr. Houghton was determined should be made. The recent election of Mr. Houghton as a director of the Boston & Albany railroad was very welcome to the people of Berkshire. They know that he will do all that any man can do to improve the local service of that county. Mr. Houghton's interest in Williams college as one of her trustees is also to his credit. The great outside public will agree that North Adams does well to honor her most representative citizen, and the purpose to inaugurate the new city government on a non-partisan basis is just the right point of departure.

Rev. M. J. Savage of Boston, the noted preacher and writer, in a recent sermon declares Robert Ingersoll to be the greatest living orator, and as earnest and honest in his professions as John Calvin or Richard Baxter. Mr. Ingersoll is classed with Spencer and Huxley in his beliefs, or non-beliefs, an agnostic but not an atheist. The great Boston divine further says of Col. Ingersoll: "And I am willing to put myself on record as saying, with all the emphasis of which I am capable, that—though, as you know, I do not agree with Colonel Ingersoll concerning some of the points that I regard as of unspeakable importance—if I must choose between the conception of the world, of God, man and destiny, as set forth in the authoritative creeds of the orthodox churches of today—if I had to choose between these and the positions of Colonel Ingersoll, I would take my place gladly and lovingly and tenderly by his side, let the outcome be whatever it might. Rather than accept the old view of God and of his relation to his children, as set forth in the old creeds, I would rather try to lighten human burdens, to lift the weight of some heart crushed, to wipe out the tears from some eye, to do some little thing in order to help to make the world happier and brighter, and then fall asleep forever, and I would thank God for the dust, and the worms, and the darkness, and the eternal silence, infinitely more than I would thank him for his heaven with me at his right hand, while from below rose the smoke and cries of those in torment."

When a Democratic journal like the New York Herald speaks as follows of Minister Bayard's recent outpourings there must be something wrong: "Now, without saying a word in favor of protection, it is still desirable to ask whether this denunciation of it comes from an American ambassador, not of free trader, not of the Democratic party, not even of a Democratic administration, but of the United States. Protection, mistaken policy though it be, is the policy of a great party, which represents half of the people of the United States. It is, then, for the American ambassador to announce in England that half the American people are wedded to a policy which is corrupt and corrupting? To say it at home is one thing; to say it abroad is another, and for an ambassador to say it is to disparage in the view of England the country he represents."

The caucuses next week give the final decision of the voters of this town as to candidates for all city offices. Every proper influence on them for the selection of good candidates is in order. Any attempt to ignore their importance will be a blunder. Caucuses and parties still live in North Adams and will be doing business at the old stands next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. But this is not saying that their action will not be non-partisan and liberal, just as it should be. But their voice is to be heard.

The "Goo-goo's." Good-government clubs, etc., in New York city fell because they got the "big-head" and considered everyone but themselves politically corrupt. They ignored all parties and every one, in fact, but themselves. Herein are the reasons that Tammany is again on top in New York. May the day never come in North Adams when self-inflation and over-estimated importance will deprive the best and most well-meaning citizens of rightful influence.

The Republican organization of this town will be kept intact and as perfect condition as possible. The Republican caucuses next week will have a voice to be heard. The same may be said of the Democratic caucuses. There will be no swerving from this position. Statute law recognizes party caucuses as of first importance and so will the voters of this town. The caucus has precedence in all politics, and will have in North Adams politics.

No man is less a party man for believing that the tariff issue, or the money question, or the national civil service issue, are not elements in a city election. The best citizen and the best party man is he who does the best thing for the interests and harmony of his own home and city.

A municipal ticket to be supported alike by both parties was nominated in the city of Springfield last evening. The Democrats took the lead on this occasion and put the best men to be found irrespective of party on the fusion ticket. North Adams can profit by this example.

The Springfield Republican of this morning shows an appreciation of right political workings in North Adams, as will be seen by an editorial from its columns printed elsewhere in this paper. The ablest newspaper in New England is very much right in its views about North Adams city affairs.

If the universal demand that brought a mayoralty candidate into the field is again exerted for as excellent a council membership as is the prospective first mayor, North Adams need have no fear of its first city government.

THE EDITOR'S SHEARS.

FOR TODAY.

SHUFFLE-SHOON AND AMBER LOCKS.
Shuffle-shoon and Amber locks
Set together, building blocks;
Shuffle-shoon is old and gray,
Amber locks a little child,
But together at their play
Age and youth are reconciled,
And with sympathetic glee
Build their castles fair to see.

"When I grow to be a man"
(So the wee one's prattle ran)
"I shall build a castle so—
With a gateway broad and grand.
Here a pretty vine will grow,
There a soldier guard shall stand;
And the tower shall be so high
Folks will wonder, by and by!"

Shuffle-shoon quoth: "Yes! I know;
Thus I build long ago;
Here a gate and there a wall,
Here a window, there a door;
Here a steeple, wonderful tall
Rising ever more and more!
But the years have leveled low
What I build long ago."

So they gossip at their play,
Headless of the fleeting day;
One speaks of the long ago,
Where his dead hopes buried lie,
One with chubby cheeks aglow
Prattles of the by and by;
Side by side they build their blocks
Shuffle-shoon and Amber locks.

Wanted. Real Estate. Lady to Travel. C. A. Card. C. A. Card. J. M. Darby at the Mansion House.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

—There were 1648 books given out at the public library last week.

—The checker tournament at the Y. M. C. A. will be commenced tomorrow afternoon.

—David Roberts finds he cannot consent to play the accompaniments for the Vocal society's concert as he was requested to do.

—On writs issued in favor of Frederick P. Allen and James C. Butterworth the stock of James O'Brien, tailor, was attached yesterday afternoon and his store on Eagle street closed.

—Charles, the five-years-old son of Fred and Della Wilcox, died at the parents' home on Luther street Saturday after an illness of ten days with a species of diphtheritic croup. The funeral occurred Saturday also.

—There are thirty-eight names of women voters on the lists for the city election. Divided in the wards they are as follows: Ward 1, one; ward 2, none; ward 3, eight; ward 4, two; ward 5, thirteen; ward 6, seven; ward 7, seven.

—Some Republicans of ward 3 are talking of running F. F. Hooker of Bracewell avenue for councilman. Mr. Hooker is an officer of the Republican club and is proposed for the council by his friends, the shoe-workers principally.

—The public will be pleased with the announcement that Manager Meade of the Columbia opera house has booked for Friday night, the 23rd, the celebrated contralto, Antonette Stirling, who will be accompanied by Miss Janotia, pianist; Orlando Harley, tenor, and Vivadar Naehes, violinist. These famed musicians will appear under the management of Marcus R. Mayer and will give an entertainment that will be sure to be appreciated by lovers of high-grade music.

—Claude Mickle, a young man who works in a shoe factory, but who from boyhood has displayed considerable artistic skill, has painted for the Loftus Plumbing and Heating company a large picture of the "Sure Luck" range, which the company has placed on the outside of its building on Centre street for a sign. The painting is upon oiled canvas and is a very exact representation of the range. For a man who makes no pretensions as an artist it is a very creditable piece of work and one that would seem to warrant young Mickle in cultivating his talent.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

Mrs. C. T. Ralston and son are in New York for a visit of two or three weeks.

M. H. Torrey of Williamstown stopped in town last night while on his way home from Worcester, where he had been attending the annual session of the National grange for a few days, and attended the annual meeting of the Hoosac Valley Agricultural society today.

Dr. and Mrs. William E. Brown arrived home from the West last night.

A MOUNTAIN TELEPHONE.

A Scheme to Connect Distant Hills of Florida With Civilization.

Rev. J. H. Bigger, pastor of the Baptist church of Florida, is attempting to get a telephone line to the top of Florida mountain. Inquiry has been made and it is found that the building of the line and the rent of an instrument for one year would cost $150. Mr. Bigger proposes to raise this amount by advertising and other schemes. It is believed business men will be advertising space to help the project along. The telephone is needed, Mr. Bigger declares, for the purpose of ordering food for animals and for ordering groceries when the weather is very stormy and for summoning a doctor in cases of sickness. It is argued plenty of use can be found for it. It would probably be placed at Town-Clerk Rice's office or at the home of L. J. Whitcomb.

TO SELL AT SPRINGFIELD.

Sand Springs Toilet Water to be Exhibited and Sold.

Dr. Bragg will place on sale with Forbes & Wallace of Springfield about 1000 bottles of his Sand Springs toilet water. Andrew J. Clegorn, and G. W. Spigil of Saratoga, N. Y., will go to Springfield and take charge of the sale. In the great store of Forbes & Wallace a very artistic groto will be built and covered with ferns, palms and cut flowers. Bottles of the water will be arranged around it and a reservoir will be placed in it so that Sand Springs water will be on draught. Those visiting the groto in the store will be treated to a glass of water, kept at a temperature to make it pleasant to drink.

Dr. Bragg has a good business prospect in the sale of the water. A telegram was recently received by F. E. Swift from Tilly Haynes of New York in which Mr. Haynes said Sand Springs toilet water was the best he ever had used.

AMUSEMENTS.

An Excellent Play.

An attraction of more than ordinary merit and one that all admirers of good character acting will be interested in is "A Yenuine Yentleman," the new play by Gus Heege, which will serve to introduce this exceedingly clever actor in a new role. It will be presented on an elaborate scenic scale and with the strongest company that Mr. Heege has ever had in his support. There are few actors now before the public who can lay claim to more legitimate methods or a wider range of ability than the creator of Swedish dialect comedy. "A Yenuine Yentleman" is described as an extremely humorous play, gorgeously and picturesquely put upon the stage and presented by a remarkably strong company. At the Columbia Wednesday evening, November 20.

"Forgiven."

Of this attractive melo-drama, which will be presented at the Columbia opera house Friday night, the 22nd, the New York Herald says: "The audience never missed an opportunity to give vent to its appreciation of the many strong scenes with which the play abounds. Indeed, so great was the applause that the principals were compelled to come before the curtain at the end of each of the acts to bow their acknowledgements."

Placed on File.

BROCKTON, Mass., Nov. 19. — At the meeting of the board of aldermen last night, the petition signed by prominent citizens asking that the committee on police refrain from taking part in the police investigation came up again, and after a long discussion was filed.

Drawing Religious Lines.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—At a meeting of the Boston W. C. T. U. yesterday it was decided to forward a communication to Miss Frances E. Willard requesting that no Roman Catholic priests be allowed to take part in any of the W. C. T. U. religious exercises.

Restricting Bicycles' Speed.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 19.—The common council yesterday voted to restrict the speed of bicycles within the city limits to eight miles an hour. The bicycle clubs united in a petition asking that the limit be placed at 10 miles, but it was disregarded.

Curtis Again.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—The Republicans held caucuses last night throughout the city, at which municipal and aldermanic delegates were elected. As was anticipated, Edwin U. Curtis was again the choice of his party for mayor.

Seeking Another Election.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 19.—The people of the town of Cranston are making another effort to have the town annexed to this city, and a petition is being circulated in favor of another election to decide the question.
